FISTIC BATTLE HALTS SENATE GRAFT INQUIRY

Chairman Seidner, Columbus Lawyer, Come To Blows

LATTER ORDERED HELD IN CONTEMPT

Note Written by Lawyer To Committee Witness Starts Trouble

COLUMBUS, Feb. 25.—A fist fight between Chairman J. Ralph Seidner of Youngstown and Warlick Rowland, Columbus attorney, threw the senate graft-hunting committee hearing into an uproar today.

The committee, investigating the fracas immediately, adopted a resolution to cite Rowland for contempt.

Rowland Uninjured

Seidner's face was bruised and his glasses knocked to the floor in the brief exchange of blows outside the hearing room. Rowland was not injured.

Sen. Verner E. Metcalf's resolution to cite Rowland for contempt was adopted unanimously. The resolution said nothing would be left undone to "put him (Rowland) behind the bars in Franklin county" and it instructed the sergeant-at-arms to eject Rowland from the senate chambers.

It also asserted that the incident would be placed before the state bar association and the common pleas court for "proper action."

Seidner met Rowland outside the room after intercepting a note to Frank Walker of Grandview, a witness before the committee. The note, which the assistant sergeant-at-arms, Dan Parkinson, said he wrote for Rowland, asked Walker to come outside.

Demand Resignation

The committee demanded that Parkinson resign today or it would seek his dismissal before the senate.

Seidner said that he asked Walker to resign, another assistant sergeant-at-arms, if he knew who gave him the note which Glass carried into the room.

"Glass seemed confused and there was more or less a buzzing around outside the room. A newspaper man told me Parkinson wrote the note. I told Parkinson I thought it was a terrible thing for him to do."

"Then I went up to Rowland and he said, 'we are not dealing with gentlemen.' I told him, 'you are dealing with gentlemen' and without my pre-knowledge he struck me in the eye with his fist."

"He continued to throw his fists and I grabbed him around the shoulder and held him until we were taken apart."

When the fight occurred the committee arose with spectators and surged through the door, where they saw Seidner rubbing his right eye and a senate employee picking his glasses from the floor.

Glass and Parkinson were rebuked sharply by committee counsel James Metzgerbaum as the committee began investigation of the incident.

HIGH STUDENT SUCCUMBS HERE

Charles Kesselmire, 17, Dies After Short Illness

Charles Kesselmire, 17-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Kesselmire of 1033 East State st., died at 11:40 a. m. today at Salem City hospital of complications following a short illness.

The youth observed his 17th birthday yesterday. He was born in Salem Feb. 24, 1921.

A junior in Salem High school, he was a member of the Quakers' varsity football squad in 1937 and extremely popular among fellow students.

He also played with the Salem grid team in 1935 and 1936, seeing service as an end and tackle.

The youth's father, who operates the John P. Glass mineral baths, has frequently been named as one of the most outstanding gridgers in local football history.

In addition to his parents, he is survived by one sister, Mrs. Robert Middeker of Salem.

Funeral arrangements will be announced later.

PROFITEERING BILL IS PASSED

House Committee Measure Gives President Power to Limit Prices

WASHINGTON, Feb. 25.—The house military committee approved today a bill to give the President broad authority to prevent profiteering in war time.

The committee's action broke a legislative deadlock over the legislation, which President Roosevelt recommended in his national defense measure to congress.

The measure contains a provision for a universal draft of man power and industry in wartime.

The chief executive would have power to put a "ceiling" on prices. In addition the legislation provides for a "system of taxation which shall absorb all profits above a fair normal return to be fixed by congress."

Motorists Figure In Three Mishaps

One person was hurt in one of the three traffic accidents investigated Thursday by state highway patrolmen.

A truck operated by Sandy T. Scott, 32, of E. D. Ravenna, skidded backwards into a ditch on the Lisbon road, three and one-half miles south of Salem at 9:40 a. m.

Traffic was blocked temporarily. Edward Wermuth, 34, of 281 S. Broadway, escaped injury when his automobile upset in a ditch one-quarter of a mile west of Damascus at 7:30 a. m., after Wermuth applied the brakes while the road was icy.

State Patrolman C. W. Cale said Roy J. White, 51, of Cleveland Heights, was lucky to escape with only a cut lip and a bruised right knee when his car was demolished against a tree on Route 45 at the Columbiana-Mahoning county line at 5 p. m. yesterday. White lost control of his machine.

YOUNGSTOWN, Feb. 25.—A 75-pound casting which fell 27 feet from a trestle struck and killed Paul White, 20, Republic Steel Co. employe, yesterday.

Leah Leipper and Elsie Hunter Are Second and Third

Harold Hoprich, Leah Leipper and Elsie Hunter were named first, second and third honor students, respectively, at the High school today by Principal Harold M. Williams. Nine other Senior students also were given honor ratings.

Their selection followed a compilation of grades for seven semesters of class work, there being two semesters a school term. The Seniors are now in their last semester's work.

Hoprich, editor of "The Quaker", weekly high school paper, has had practically all A grades since he started his Freshman course almost four years ago.

He also is vice president of the Senior class, president of the High School Association, a member of the band and is an active member of the Salesmasquers and the Hi-Y.

Hoprich is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hoprich, S. Lundy ave. Miss Leipper is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Leipper, E. Third st. and Miss Hunter is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Hunter, W. State st.

Miss Leipper, who ranked second in the ratings, is on the editorial staff of "The Quaker", is a member of the Hi-Tri, the Salesmasquers and plays in the band.

Miss Hunter, third, is student librarian and is an affirmative speaker on the High school debate team which is continuing a successful season. She also is a Hi-Tri.

The other honor students are: Fourth, Mary Behr; fifth, David Hart; sixth, Elizabeth Elder; seventh, Anna Mae Slaby; eighth, Charles Wentz; ninth, Lionel Difford, and tie for tenth place, Verna Carpenter and Irene Schmidt.

Although the grades are averaged again at the end of the school term, there is seldom much change over the seven semester's ratings. Principal Williams explained.

Davey, Bradley Clash In Court

Attorney Harrison

Bitter clashes between attorneys marked the opening of the hearing of Lee Bradley in East Cleveland municipal court on charges of perjury brought by Gov. Martin L. Davey of Ohio. The charges followed testimony of Bradley before a legislative committee investigating graft in the state administration. Governor Davey, Bradley and one of Bradley's attorneys, Marvin C. Harrison, are pictured as they appeared in court. Plea for a continuance brought a two-day postponement.

Graft Probe Witnesses' Attorneys Say Judge Is Prejudiced

(By Associated Press)
CLEVELAND, Feb. 25.—Lee Bradley's attorneys sought today through an affidavit of prejudice to remove Municipal Judge Stanton Addams of East Cleveland as presiding magistrate in the perjury action instituted by Gov. Martin L. Davey against his self-styled former "contact man."

Counsel for the Cleveland asphalt salesman filed the affidavit in the municipal clerk's office last night, after Judge Addams continued to Saturday a hearing to determine whether Bradley should be bound to the grand jury.

Charge Bias on Six Counts

Bradley's testimony before the state senate investigating committee, alleging the governor—once his employer in the surgery business—solicited 1934 campaign funds from utilities and motor companies, precipitated Davey's court action.

Attorneys Marvin C. Harrison and E. S. Byers charged Judge Addams in the affidavit with bias on six counts.

They labelled the jurist a political partisan of the governor and prejudiced because of a $2,400-a-year job as adviser in the state banking department's liquidation of the Standard Bank of Cleveland.

The state liquor control department, the affidavit said, takes all its cases in this district to Judge Addams' court, benefiting East Cleveland financially.

It quoted the judge as telling newsmen in reference to Bradley: "If what he says is true, Bradley belongs in the penitentiary. And if it isn't true, he has committed perjury and belongs there anyway."

Judge Walter McMahon, acting chief justice of common pleas court, is to receive the affidavit today.

SNUBS HITLER, STRESSES PLAN OF SOVEREIGNTY

Schuschnigg Neglects To Praise Fuehrer In Talk To Parliament

PATRIOTS MARCH IN CELEBRATION

Has Warm Praise, However, For Italy's Premier Mussolini

BERLIN, Feb. 25.—Austria's Chancellor Schuschnigg had the opportunity to rally to Hitler, he failed to seize it and therefore must go into the discard—this is the reaction of a number of leading Nazis in Berlin.

Their concern is because Schuschnigg did not praise Germany's Hitler in his speech to the Austrian parliament, broadcast in Germany. Schuschnigg stressed Austria's determination to retain her sovereignty, as against the German idea of union of German-speaking nations.

Austria's Patriots March

In Vienna, Austria's patriots marched into the morning hours to celebrate their chancellor's pledge.

But Austrian Nazis were angered and there were some scattered demonstrations. There was also talk of a hitch in the new Austro-German friendship draft.

Prominent Nazis in a series of midnight interviews in Berlin prefaced their remarks by emphasizing they were not speaking for Fuehrer Hitler, but held that their viewpoint was that of Nazis generally.

"Why did Schuschnigg not find some generous words for Hitler as our Fuehrer found Sunday for the Austrian chancellor?" the Nazis asked.

"Schuschnigg missed his big chance. For us he is finished. History will take its course without him."

"We got the police and the ministry of the interior as well as large sections of the army. Austria is ours."

Emphasizes Sovereignty

Schuschnigg, reporting on the Feb. 12 Berchtesgaden talks with Hitler by high Austrian Nazis gained authority for past political offenses and won entry into the Austrian cabinet, emphasized the nation's determination to retain sovereignty.

Hitler, he said, had pledged respect for that sovereignty, although the two nations were agreed upon friendly cooperation. And, continued Schuschnigg, Nazis still were barred from Austrian political activity, except as individual members of the Fatherland Front, his nation's only legal political party.

Omitting mention of Hitler by name, Schuschnigg gave warm praise to Italian Premier Mussolini as one who had "always tried to avoid any impressions of interference in our internal affairs."

HIGH DEBATERS DOWN RAVENNA

Face Two More Hurdles Before State Finals At Columbus

The Salem High school debaters scored their initial victory in the district eliminations at Kent Thursday night when they defeated Ravenna, another district champion.

The Quaker debaters became winners in this district several weeks ago by defeating other neighboring schools.

Last night's debate was on the Ohio State Debate league question, "Resolved, That the several states should adopt a unicameral system of legislation." Dr. Warren Guthrie of Western Reserve university acted as judge.

Salem took the affirmative side of the debate, being represented by Elsie Hunter and Constance Clarke. Sometime next week, on probably neutral ground, Salem High school's negative speakers, Miss Clarke and Lionel Difford, will meet Williamsfield, an Ashtabula county school.

Coach J. C. Guller's debaters have one more encounter after the Williamsfield tilt and if they are victorious in both they will go to Columbus to compete in the state finals.

"Christian's Hope" Is Sermon Subject

"The Christian's Hope" was the theme of a sermon preached by Evangelist Wade Patrick of Alliance at the revival service Thursday evening at the First Friends church.

"The saddest thing in the world today is for a person to be deceived about his own soul," the evangelist said. "People who die without God are not 'better off' because they have no hope."

The speaker pointed out that Jesus Christ was manifest to take away "our sins and to destroy the works of the devil, and in Him is the Christian's hope."

Tonight will conclude the week's services and the three weeks' service will close with the Sunday night service.

Special music is provided at each service by Mr. and Mrs. Earl Smith of Canton, song leaders.

Aging U. S. Army Commander Fails Rapidly During Night

MEDICAL STAFF HAS LITTLE HOPE

A. E. F. Chief Saw 42 Yrs. Of Active Service Before Retiring

(By Associated Press)
TUCSON, Ariz., Feb. 25.—Courageous John Joseph Pershing, who rose from humble birth to general of the United States armies, lay in a coma today. Physicians said the end of his last campaign was near.

Favorable reaction to heart stimulants gave the general fitful moments of semi-consciousness and he rallied once sufficiently to speak half a dozen words. His blood pressure also grew stronger but physicians said his general condition was unchanged.

42 Years of Service

The aging commander, who saw 42 years of active army service before retiring to carry on work almost as strenuous, failed rapidly during the night. Dr. Roland Davison, one of three physicians in attendance, said, "I doubt if he can last very long."

Heart stimulants were administered as doctors and nurses worked feverishly to keep Pershing, 77, from slipping away. His blood pressure had reached a "critical low level."

The staff of physicians despaired of his life early last evening. Dr. Verne Mason, who was called from Los Angeles to consult with Dr. Davison and Lt. Col. S. U. Marietta of San Antonio, Tex., made plane reservations to return home.

Dr. William Kerr, heart specialist of the University of California medical school, San Francisco, who was summoned to the bedside but missed a plane connection, was advised not to come, that his arrival would be too late.

Physicians administered heart stimulants early today and reported a short time later Pershing's blood pressure was slightly better. An unsuccessful attempt was made to get him to drink water. Intravenous feeding had been abandoned.

Lapses Into Unconsciousness

The physicians announced at 11:15 M. EST. last night that General Pershing had lapsed into unconsciousness. Relatives were hastily summoned to the bedside.

Miss Mary Pershing, his only sister and devoted companion of recent years, spent much of the night sitting by the bed holding the general's hand.

One of her old friends, Mrs. W. E. Hardy, Lincoln, Neb., and Mrs. William R. Mathews, wife of a

Joe Thomas Hearing Is Slated Saturday

LISBON, Feb. 25.—Disposition of liquor charges against Joe Thomas, proprietor of the White Swan Inn, Middleton township, will be made Saturday by Justice of the Peace M. K. Zimmerman following a trial Thursday afternoon in Court Room No. 2.

Thomas, charged with selling liquor without a permit and possession of slot machines, was arrested Jan. 22 on a warrant sworn to by Alonzo McCune of Midland, Pa. McCune testified at the hearing he had purchased whiskey and beer at Thomas' resort while there with a party of friends. Other witnesses who said they accompanied McCune to the inn corroborated his testimony—among them two Lisbon girls.

Labels allegedly removed from liquor bottles were introduced as evidence.

Personal Property Returns Show Gain

LISBON, Feb. 25.—Personal property tax returns show a marked improvement over a corresponding period last year, members of County Auditor John Irwin's office announced Thursday.

To date 510 returns have been received by the office. Last year only 190 tax payers had responded by Feb. 24. Explanatory forms mailed by the office this year are credited with the improvement.

Residents have until March 31 to make their returns before a 50 per cent penalty is invoked. A ten per cent penalty is applicable to tax payers failing to make payments ten days following the expiration of the return deadline.

Acceptance of returns opened Feb. 15.

NO MAGIC

Discussion of a proposed constitutional amendment to give Ohio a one house legislature runs into so many confusing angles that it's a good idea once in a while to get back on the main track.

In the first place, there wouldn't be any discussion of a proposed amendment if it weren't for the fact so many Ohioans have turned sour on the two house legislature. Its record is no worse than that of two house legislatures in other states, but there is widespread feeling that state legislatures in general haven't been up to snuff.

There is no good reason to believe the record of one house legislatures would be any better in the long run. But because the one house plan is still untried, the temptation to try it, on the assumption it couldn't be worse and might be better, is strong. In short, the one house plan is a negative approach to a problem which won't really be solved till the human factor in legislature endeavor can be improved.

In Washington, a two house legislature works reasonably well most of the time. In most municipalities, one house legislatures are a continuous headache. There's no magic in systems. Any system will work if it's made to work by the human beings within it.

"AMERICA SPEAKS"

Unless they're doing tricks with mirrors on the tight little island, the British are filled up to the ears right now with frantic talk about democracy vs. fascism and the fact that every American expects them to do their duty in cleaning up the continental mess before it makes trouble over here.

Furthermore, the British take a royal family for granted, they support a house of lords, an aristocracy of wealth and don't do much about tenant farming. Squabbles over these matters are old chestnuts.

In other words, the British must have wondered if Honest Harold Ickes hadn't mixed his manuscripts the other night when he told them all about democracy vs. fascism and economic royalists during an international broadcast called, strangely enough, "America Speaks."

What the British are dialing for in all probability is a swing band, with Charlie McCarthy making the introductions and Bing Crosby singing the refrains. And they get Mr. Ickes. Ouch. Turn off that radio.

HEARTILY IN FAVOR

As Sen. Wagner, sponsor of the anti-lynching bill, said in the final flurry of debate which ended the filibuster by a 58 to 22 vote to shelve the measure, it was a strange situation.

Seventy or more senators were in favor of the bill, but the two thirds vote needed to gag the filibusterers couldn't be obtained.

Nor could the administration, itself, though it favored the proposal, seem to make any progress with it. Nor could the Republicans, nearly all of them in favor of the bill, find the way clear to take steps which would have helped it along. Nor could the proposal's backers work up more than a perfunctory lather when it came to arguing for the measure.

It was indeed a strange situation, if you want to make a mystery of it. Otherwise, you merely remember there's a difference between a politician "being in favor of something" and actually getting behind it. One's strategy; the other's conviction.

UNFURL OLD GLORY

King Zog's three unmarried sisters—King Zog does his kingly in Albania—are America-bound. Unfurl Old Glory.

It is reported the three princesses are coming here to look not only for the things all tourists look for, but to keep their eyes peeled for romance.

If true, that can mean but one thing. They will draw a bead on some fine, innocent, unsuspecting American boy and before he can say their names he will be over in Albania. If he has a little money, so much the better.

The only difference from the old story of European nobility coming here to look for a mate is that this time it's princesses, not princes. Unfurl Old Glory and stand by to thump the alarm drums at the first sign of a friendly glance!

THE STARS SAY:

For Saturday, February 26

A difficult day, with many conflicting developments, is forecast from the predominant lunar and mutual aspects. There is a sign of profitable intrigue or collusion, or a strategic matter in connection with rings, mergers, secret, political or diplomatic bodies. But there also is a hint of enmity, jealousy and rash moves, probably affecting the private life.

If This Is Your Birthday

Those whose birthday it is may find themselves in difficult and adverse situations unless they control their turbulent, rash and impetuous proclivities. These may precipitate quarrels, enmity or jealousy. A profitable association might be made through diplomacy, strategy or intrigue. Be guided by prudence and the advice of good friends.

A child born on this day may be lively, tempestuous, impulsive and inspire enmity, jealousy and defeat, although it may have a very likeable and friendly nature. Early training and discipline may set its feet in the right direction.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

(EDITOR'S NOTE: The following "New York Day by Day" column, by Oscar Odd McIntyre, was prepared by the famous New York writer and distributed prior to his death.)

NEW YORK, Feb. 25—Thoughts while strolling: For the Wonder Girl Club—Marion Gillespie, who has never seen "Tobacco Road." Still another cowboy humorist from Oklahoma: Cal Tinney. Suggestion for a mystery play title: "In a Room Off Times Square." Popular radio executive: John Royal.

Add colorful gowns: Those of Mrs. Roy Howard and Hattie Bell Johnston. They say J. P. Morgan always stops to see a window display of pipes. Frank Craven looks the same as he did 25 years ago. The Stork Club is out front with the debutantes. Eyes alike: Cole Porter and George Jean Nathan.

No one ever knew the box office value of vaudeville folk so precisely as Eddie Darling. Benny Goodman is just a new time Ted Lewis letting himself go. The New Deal's forgotten boy—Raymond Moley. Can't imagine William Rhineland Stewart busting out into a hearty ho-ho!

The forlorn-looking Eddie Duchin. Not many could pique the interest of the night club crowds more than Fannie Ward, rounding in at 3 a. m. all merry and bright. And where is she now? The Waldorf's Mr. Boomer and his fancy trellis of sideburns. With that eye sparkle, Sonja Henie would be just another skater.

Not many men who wouldn't give a lot to look like Clark Gable in a turtle neck sweater or Noel Coward in a white silk muffler. The handsome former polo star, Larry Waterbury. A liveried footman in a limousine. Yoo hoo, those economic royalists are in again!

Phillips Lord, who started his radio career with his impersonations of the back-woods Seth Parker, has finally become city broke. For a long time he clung to his native Maine traditions, but today steps out in tails now and then to white-tie it around night haunts. There are even rumors he has been sighted in spats. Lord is 35, married and the father of two children. He has a home and yacht on Long Island, a penthouse in Manhattan and a three and a half mile water front estate in Maine. His father is the Rev. A. J. Lord, of Meriden, Ct., who continues to preach to his faithful, weekly.

The exceedingly beautiful Rosamond Pincho's suicide was really a study in stage-struck frustration. Her enthusiasm for the theatre was a consuming passion, and although she attained a degree of success, she wanted her name blazing over a marquee. I once sat next her at dinner and her entire talk was of the play and players. What did I think of Katharine Cornell, Helen Hayes and Meredith Burgess? Born to wealth and social position, she preferred the performers of stage and screen and the gatherings of these were about the only parties she attended. Such enthusiasms are difficult to understand but there are many.

The strike of the theatre box office fellows did not winnow deep sympathy from the public which has suffered considerable snooting from them. There are a few splendid men in such posts, but as a class they are insufferable and have contributed to weaning many from the theatre. John Chapman observes, however, that the ticket sellers are the only persons who can wear any sort of trousers with a dinner coat. Nobody sees them below the waist.

Unlike Frenchmen, few Americans tip the wine steward. They take care of the waiter, captain and head waiter, but rarely the sommelier. Probably for the practical reason he does little—just pours. And often the captain relieves him of that chore. I never ran across a wine waiter who did not glow at a swamping of ideas and a jet of stylish talk about vintages. And like most persons who think they know wine, he soon proves he knows little. But they appreciate communion of interest. My favorite wine steward is the black-aproned Chaplin who gets powdered nightly on heel-taps from customers' bottles at L'Escargot in Paris. He's been at it 30 years. And then the dignified sommelier at El Morocco, the General Grant looking fellow with the gorgeous side clips. A pip of a casting job for what Abel Green calls a chichi jern.

CARE OF AGED
TO THE physician, the care of the elderly individual is a familiar problem. But, unfortunately, it often proves a difficult task for members of the household.

These dear ones are close to our hearts, and we wish to make them just as happy and comfortable as possible. Chiefly, we should realize they must be guarded against the many pitfalls of old age. It is very important that they be spared unnecessary tasks and burdens, those which are too heavy for their frail bodies.

Old age is not a disease, of course, and the elderly person should not be regarded or treated as an invalid. We must not bore them with too much attention. It is necessary to guard against the hazards of heart disease, chronic bronchitis, high blood pressure, asthma and rheumatism, as well as bladder and kidney disturbances so frequently met in elderly people.

They should be tactfully advised that their activities must be considerably curtailed. Excessive strain of any sort is dangerous. Everything they do should be consistent with their powers of endurance and physical ability.

Should Be Examined

Like the youngster who is growing and developing, the elderly person requires periodic examinations by the doctor. As a result of these examinations certain defects can be detected and immediate steps taken to protect against them. Preventive procedures will ward off many undesirable conditions.

Too many elderly persons avoid the doctor. They claim they are in good health and have no complaints. They are apt to minimize their disorders. Naturally, no one of them wishes to be a burden or nuisance. This may be the reason they deprive themselves of needed medical attention. This is unwise and may be dangerous.

A common mistake made by elderly persons is their utter disregard of the diet. As we grow older, our activities are diminished, our need for food is lessened. The food should be simple and nutritious.

All fried and greasy dishes, as well as foods that are known to be difficult to digest, should be omitted from the daily diet. Sometimes a special diet should be prescribed. This should only be given under the advice of the physician.

Answers to Health Queries

Mrs. E. F. Q.—I am an old lady, 75 years of age, troubled with itching of the skin on the body and head. I seem healthy and my mind is clear. While I have a good appetite I do not eat three meals a day although everything seems to agree with me. What can you advise in my case?

A.—Itching of the skin may be due to a number of causes. Make sure the kidneys and intestines are functioning freely and ridding the system of poisons and impurities. For full particulars, send a self-addressed, stamped envelope and repeat your question.

Theater Attractions

With George Brent and Olivia de Havilland as its stars, "Gold Is Where You Find It," a thrilling melodrama of California in 1870's, will be seen at the State tonight and Saturday.

It is a production in technicolor and according to reports of previewers is one of the really best pictures of the season. "Gold Is Where You Find It" deals with a phase of gold-seeking that has hitherto been untouched by the movies—the hydraulic mining whereby tremendously powerful streams of water ripped away hillsides, from the debris of which the miners sifted their metal.

"Wild Horse Rodeo," which is showing at the Grand theatre, tonight and Saturday, presents to the public a full-fledged rodeo, exciting as anything seen in real life. In addition, there is a drama of three cowboys to capture the wild horse and, once captured and in the control of the rodeo boss, to secure the horse freedom again. June Martel enacts the role of

TRANSPORT CO. HIT BY PROBERS

Dissolution of Shaw Firm Demanded by Senator Metcalf

(By Associated Press)

COLUMBUS, Feb. 25.—A demand for dissolution of Shaw Transport, Inc., arose today in the senate investigating committee after the inquiry body's counsel pictured the company as a "political corporation" set up to take undeserved profits from the state liquor department.

Sen. Verner E. Metcalf, attorney-member of the committee, said he would prepare a resolution demanding that the attorney general act to stop the company from doing further business.

Shaw Transport, one of whose stockholders is John P. Nolan, Jefferson county Democratic chairman, has a contract to transport liquor from warehouses to state liquor stores for 17 cents a case.

The actual hauling, however, is done under a sub-contract by the U. S. Truck Lines at 11½ cents a case.

This arrangement, the committee was told by Counsel James Metzbaum, enabled the company to make a profit of 5½ cents a case on about 1,500,000 cases of liquor transported in 1937.

"The fact that the state administration and the liquor department can steal $82,000 a year from the old age pensioners of Ohio should cause an explosion from top to bottom," Metcalf asserted.

Profits of the liquor department go to old age pensions.

Robert M. Shaw of Columbus, president, told the committee that his company had four employees and possessed no transportation equipment. Two of the incorporators, he testified, were Mary Spencer and Mary Shoemaker of Steubenville, Ohio, both employees of Nolan.

Although Miss Spencer is vice-president, secretary and treasurer, she said she owned no stock. The 300 shares of the company stock are divided equally among Nolan, Shaw and Burt Kemmerling, a Cleveland automobile dealer, Shaw testified.

Charges "Political Pressure" Metzbaum declared "political pressure" was used to cause the liquor department to cancel a four-year contract with U. S. Truck Lines and give the business to Shaw transport. Shaw said he had no knowledge of political pressure.

The counsel, told that the liquor department cancelled U. S. Truck Lines' original contract because it was dissatisfied with the service, asked why it approved the action of Shaw in turning the business back to the original hauler on a sub-contract.

Shaw said that was not his affair.

"Why didn't the department compel you to haul the liquor for 11½ cents, the price you paid to U. S. Truck Lines, instead of paying you 17 cents?" demanded Metzbaum.

Shaw was silent. Senator Metcalf declared that the Shaw contract was identical to the previous one between the liquor department and U. S. Truck Lines, except that the amount of insurance required was lowered from $150,000 to $75,000, or exactly half.

Shaw said "we agreed to correct the faults" previously found with U. S. Truck Lines and Metzbaum remarked:

"It was a case of your puny little company saying that you would see that this giant corporation with its vast investment would perform satisfactorily."

Love Rival's Slayer Freed

Duncan Ladd, 33-year-old engineer of New Haven, Conn., is pictured as his daughter, Virginia (left), and his mother hug him when the jury trying him for the murder of Michael Di Leo, rival for his wife's love, found him "not guilty by reason of insanity." A sanity commission will examine Ladd.

Will Check Relief

LIBSON, Feb. 25.—John Orr of Wellsville, formerly connected with the National Re-employment Service in the county, was appointed today by Columbiana county commissioners as an accountant to work with Norman J. Hirt, state auditor's examiner, in keeping tab on relief activities in the county. The office has been set up on the third floor of the courthouse.

77, Swims 5 Miles

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 25.—Mrs. Anna Van Skike celebrated her 77th birthday by swimming five miles in an indoor pool.

"I am a bit muscle-bound," she said, "or I would have done my annual ten miles in the water. I could do it over again right now, and next year I am sure I will do the ten miles."

The swim took her nine hours. Past birthday swims have been in the ocean.

Students At Goshen High Mourn Loss Of Classmate

Margaret Arlene Burton Active In Home Economics Project

Miss Margaret Arlene Burton, 18, who was fatally burned in a kerosene explosion at the home of her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Ira Burton, of the Goshen road, Tuesday, was an honor student in the home economics class at Goshen Township High school, Danvers.
Many of her classmates plan to attend the funeral service at 2:30
p. m. Saturday at the Arbaugh-
Pearce funeral home here.
Margaret took it upon herself to establish a filing system for illustrative material helpful to members of the home economics class, Miss Daisy M. Stackhouse, the teacher, recalls.
The files were divided according to foods, clothing, house, home management, family and social relationships, health, child development, community activities and home economics for boys.
The key to the file of material was typed on small filing cards and kept in convenient location. By consulting these cards much time was saved in locating reference material.
The other home economics class students assumed responsibilities of their own in keeping the filing system in shape, but Miss Burton checked, at intervals, to see that the library was kept in order.

The annual winter meeting of applegrowers of Columbiana and Mahoning counties, held Thursday in the Columbiana High school auditorium was well attended, sessions being held both morning and afternoon. Problems both of growing and marketing were discussed following talks by the state experts: Dr. H. C. Young of Ohio Experiment Station; Dr. N. P. Childers and Frank H. Beach, of Ohio State university.

F. H. Grove, retired manufacturer and prominent Columbiana real estate owner, has been appointed by Judge W. F. Lones as one of a committee of four to represent the county to consult with a Stark county committee to pass upon a proposal to erect a 12-room school building at the Fairmount Children's home.

The Columbiana High school basketball team drew a bye in the first round of the McDonald tournament, which opens Tuesday evening. The Mahoning county champion, not yet determined, drew the only other first round bye. This means that Coach Jimmy Wands' lads will not play before Wednesday or Thursday night. The Columbiana county tournament champion, to be determined Saturday night at New Waterford, will meet the Trumbull county No. 5 team in the first round. Columbiana, being an exempted village district and no longer under county supervision, is not compelled to enter the county tournament.

Italy Sets Year 1940 For Crude Oil Independence; Builds Huge Refinery

BY JOSEPH D. RAVOTTO
United Press Correspondent

ROME — Italy has reached the half-way mark in its drive to be free from dependence upon foreign refined gasoline and lubricating oils.

Italy expects to be completely independent of foreign finished products by 1940 when two large oil refineries are completed in Bari and in Libya.

Last November the most modern refinery in Europe was inaugurated at Naples. It cost $5,000,000 to construct. Planned and built by American engineers and specialists, it required two years of high pressure work to complete. Although Italian money is invested it is controlled by Socony Vacuum.

The refinery is equipped to produce aviation gasoline and has the largest capacity in Italy for lubricating oils.

Although the plant is equipped for a much larger output, it is licensed to produce annually 60,000 tons of motor gasoline, 50,000 tons of oil for diesel engines, 10,000 tons of lubricating oil and 10,000 tons of aviation gasoline.

Plant's Volume Vast

Experts estimated that the plant is capable of producing 40 per cent beyond its licensed limits. With additional equipment it will be able to double its capacity of motor gasoline, bringing it to a total of about 170,000 tons.

The other three refineries are the government controlled AGIP at Venice for motor gasoline, the Shell at La Spezia and a small Standard Oil of New Jersey plant near Milan for the refining of domestic crude oils.

These four plants are capable of producing more than half of Italy's peacetime requirements.

With the completion of the two new refineries under construction, Italy will become entirely independent of foreign refineries by 1940.

AUBURN, N. Y. — A large iron cart used to carry concrete was left in an office room when Auburn's new postoffice was completed. The cart was too large to be removed through the door of the room. Postal officials cut it with an acetylene torch.

GEN. PERSHING IS NEARING END

Tucson publisher, spent the night at the hospital to comfort Miss Pershing.

Warren Pershing, an only son, paced the corridors and occasionally stepped into the room for a glimpse at his father.

Sgt. C. C. Shaeffer, the general's orderly for 10 years, sobbed:

"I am soon going to lose the best friend in the world. I'll be saying goodbye and going back to Washington pretty quick now."

Indisposed since Feb. 5 and confined to his bed for 10 days, the commander of America's Expeditionary Forces in the World War held his own until Monday, when he suffered a sudden relapse.

Hoped for Recovery

First reports were that he suffered only from rheumatism, but physicians admitted after his removal to a hospital that a heart complication was the cause of alarm. Even then they insisted he would recover.

Wednesday the doctors decided he had suffered "acute damage" to heart muscles but expressed belief a prolonged rest in bed would bring recovery.

From that time on, however, each bulletin indicated the aged soldier was losing ground, slowly at first, then more rapidly on Thursday.

Always a lover of the outdoors and the west, General Pershing turned in his last years to the land where he began his army career. He had spent his last six winters in Tucson and from his hotel window could look out over the mountains where he chased warring Apache Indians on his first assignment.

He made his last formal review of troops in January, 1937, at Fort Huachuca, Ariz., standing with Col. W. F. Robinson, commanding officer, to take the salute of the 25th infantry.

Manufacturer Dies

COLUMBUS, Feb. 25.—Thomas Clifton Norris, 71, retired paper manufacturer, died in a hospital last night after a long illness. A native of Woodfield, he had been associated with the Central Ohio Paper Co. for 40 years prior to his retirement in 1932.

Dean At Kenyon

CAMBER, Feb. 25.—Dr. Gilbert T. Hoag, Amherst (Mass.) college instructor, has been appointed dean of Kenyon college, it was announced today.

DALLAS, Tex.—City police investigated themselves when it was discovered that a car stored at the city pound had been stripped.

OHIO GRIDDERS ON RAMS' SQUAD

Sign 11 New State Football Stars For Pro League Play

CLEVELAND, Feb. 25.—Damon (Buzz) Wetzel returned from a four-week recruiting jaunt with word today that Cleveland's football Rams had signed up an Ohio contingent of 11 players.

"Brand new with us in the National Professional Football league next season," he said, "are three Ohio State players—Charley Zeam, end from Massillon who will play tackle; Fred Crow, end from Athens, and Jim Miller, Shelby halfback.

"We also have Bill Raizik, University of Cincinnati tackle from Toledo, and Fred Nobel of Cincinnati, Xavier's captain last year."

The 28-year-old general manager of the Rams listed a half-dozen other Ohioans as holdovers from the club which last year in its first "big time" competition won only one of 11 games.

They are Sam Busich and Stan

Pincura, of Lorain, end and quarterback, respectively, at Ohio State; Johnny Bettridge, Buckeye halfback from Sandusky and Toledo; Phil Bucklew, Xavier end, and a pair from Ohio University—Bob Snyder, Toledo halfback, and Paul Hallock, Dover end.

The Rams also have signed John Stephen, an end from Marshall college who played against Marshall's five Ohio rivals in the Buckeye conference last year, and Bob Davis, the University of Kentucky triple-threatener who lives at Covington.

Attendance Pays

LOS ANGELES—Simply by attending services, members of the Community church in suburban La Canada have insured payment of its $14,000 mortgage.

An anonymous donor offered to pay the mortgage if attendance averaged 200 persons for six months. The Rev. James H. Halliday says the average is safe even if he preaches to empty pews next Sunday.

"Women In Love" by May Christie

CHAPTER XVI.
"I understand," said Paul, "that for a time he was—er—interested in Renita Parrish."

Brenda seized on that like a hawk. "They were privately engaged—it was an understood thing—till Miss Delafield came into the store. But that isn't the first romance she's broken up. She just can't help it. Paul, I suppose it's all in the upbringing, really. I mean not having to work, like us, and that European way, that she goes out plenty with the men in the store—like Rameses, the window-dresser—and the girls tell me she makes dates over the 'phone with the manufacturers. I ran right into her myself in the buying offices, having a grand time with the salesmen."

He said curtly: "She had no business in the buying offices."

Now the story about Rameses was a pure invention. And the truth about Ann's visit to the buying department was that Miss Shellfish had sent Ann to inform the representative of Max Furchheimer, manufacturer of Misses' Dresses, that she would await the return of Max himself from Chicago before placing any more orders.

"Love's Young Dream," the salesman had said, for he was annoyed. But it had been he who had been laughing at his joke, not Ann, when Brenda had spied them.

"Forget it, Paul. Beginners are apt to make mistakes. I'm not the person to get anybody in trouble."

It disconcerted him to hear these things about Ann Delafield, and the very fact that the doings of a salesgirl should upset him, added to his discomfort.

What was the child to him? What did she matter, anyway?

If she were flirtatious round the store, making dates with the manufacturers, how had he ever imagined she could make a trustworthy buyer?

When the manufacturers stood in awe of him and his power to dictate to them what they were to manufacture for Barclay & Weiss, was this child to set at naught the policy of the store (only to be broken discreetly by a chosen few of the executives) that social relations were something quite apart from business?

She had seemed so respectful, so humble almost, the first day she had entered the store. From comparison-shopper he had demoted her to salesgirl in the Misses' Dresses, because he thought the experience would be salutary for her, after her over-enthusiasm in ordering the masks and dominoes for the Skating Carnival, and having the goods returned unpaid for, and, furthermore, he had thought that direct contact with the customers would be excellent discipline.

Was Brenda Selz telling the truth?

Why was she edging closer to him on the sofa, and flashing her dark eyes at him like a couple of gizzards?

"You're a wonderful person, Paul. I often tell people you're an Atlas, carrying the whole world on your shoulders!"

This classical allusion she considered was a master-stroke.

He smiled sarcastically.

"Why don't you say I'm a potato, with eyes all over my head?"

"Oh, a potato has no brains"—she laughed shrilly, a little put out at his lack of response—"It was only yesterday I was telling Mr. Weiss that you sure are the whole brains of the organization!"

"Well, that wouldn't make a hit with him, my dear girl. Don't forget the owner has his own creative policy."

"The 'my dear girl' delighted her. She edged still closer. The scarlet chiffon handkerchief tied to her left wrist was on his knee. Couldn't he take the hint, and hold her hand?"

As though in league with Brenda, the exquisite strains of "Parlez-Moi d'Armour" ("Speak to Me of Love") floated up from the ballroom. These were the words that Brenda yearned might come from the lips of the merchandise manager.

She had a fine voice, a contralto. She aired it now. Her eyes boidly on his face—for it was do or die!—she trilled throatily: "Speak to me of Love . . . that I am longing to hear-r-r . . ."

He rose. "I'm booked for this waltz."

That was his answer!

Ann Delafield had reasoned with Gordon Gavin on the balcony.

"You know I do like you awfully, Gordon—I always did, even when I was fifteen years old at the Junior Holiday Dances—but I'm quite sure there never could be anything more between us. It's much better for both of us to realize that."

"I realize only too well," he groaned, "that you'd never look twice at a chap without a nickel."

"It isn't that at all. Money's got nothing to do with it," she retorted. "It's just that we're entirely different, and so we could never really fall in love with each other."

Now this logic wasn't quite correct, but the main thing was to let poor Gordon down easily, for Ann was eminently kind.

He said quickly, looking at her with unhappy eyes that carried some resentment: "Is it because I took dinner tonight with Renita Parrish and brought her to the dance? Is that it?"

The pleased look that came to Ann's face was denial enough.

"Renita is gorgeous tonight. I was just thinking how particularly well you two looked together on the dance floor."

"I'm so sorry. D'you know, I

"Suppose you're hoping I'll return the compliment to you about how you looked with Bradley? Well, I won't. He's years too old for you."

Vexed as she was, she burst out laughing. No point in reasoning with Gordon!

Presently the strains of a perfect waltz drifted up to the balcony.

"Gordon, I'm booked for this dance. Will you take me downstairs?"

"Not if you're dancing with the big butter-and-egg man!"

"Oh, there are plenty here would fit that description."

"You know darn well whom I mean."

"Come, Gordon, don't be unkind. It's rude to keep people hanging about."

"Rude, you say? Well, I see it in your eye that your next partner is Bradley."

"Then if you won't come with me I'll have to go alone." She half turned, looked pleadingly at Gordon. He remained where he was.

"We can have the third dance together. It's a tango, Gordon."

"I don't need your pity."

Why, you're behaving like a horrible, spoiled little boy!" She turned and hurried from the balcony, into a salon, and directly in front of her saw Paul Bradley heading for the staircase. She overtook him.

She smiled up at him. "Mr. Bradley, I think this is our waltz."

She was not to know that Brenda Selz, ablaze with jealousy and from the snub that Mr. Bradley had administered, had paused on her way to the ladies' cloakroom (she had made the pretence of going there to get out of an awkward situation, for she had no partner) and was watching their meeting at the top of the steps!

Ann put a light little hand on Paul's arm.

It stiffened at her touch. Had she made a tactical mistake? Was he carrying store etiquette into the yearly festivity? Quickly she removed it.

"I'm so sorry. D'you know, I quite forgot our relative positions!" she dared to venture, provocatively. "What do you mean?"

"King Cophetua and the Beggar Maid! You get the idea?"

He thought how piquant and lovely she is, in her pink, tulle gown. But Brenda's innuendoes—nay, more than innuendoes—plain-spoken information on Ann's flirtatious doings—made him harden his heart against her.

"I see tonight you're getting plenty of good work in. But I'm a poor hand at flattery," he said shortly. It was like a dash of cold water on her high and happy mood.

They walked silently down the stairs.

Thought Ann: "Is he really a woman-hater? Does he think I'm deliberately trying to vamp him so as to get ahead in the store, or what?"

She held her head high.

But once on the ballroom floor, her vexation with him was forgotten. She loved dancing. Here, as with him at the Ice Carnival, was the perfect partner. They moved as one person.

Was it her fancy that, as the strains of the wonderful love-song rose higher about them, he held her more closely? Intoxicating hour! The orchids on her shoulder curled in wax beauty, and the perfume of her hair, her youth, rose to his nostrils like incense.

Love?

Was he in love with her?

If so, he'd fight it. Never give in. Love was a plaything to this spoiled society girl whose aim, it seemed, was to garner as many bruised hearts as possible. He thought: "I may teach her a lesson not to play with fire!" The thought excited him.

He looked down on the smooth, burnished sheen of her patrician head.

Against his better judgment, it came to him how wonderful it would be to bury his face in her bright hair, to revel in the warmth and scent of it, to hold her closer and yet closer.

Then memory of that scene on the balcony came to him. . . .

Was that why Gordon Gavin's work in the Advertising was so poor, of late? Was it because this girl had bewitched him?

"Speak to me of Love . . . that I am longing to hear . . ." the leader of the orchestra sang through his megaphone. It brought Brenda back to him. Brenda who had obviously wanted a response that he could never give.

Love was an ignoble thing, making fools of ordinarily quite sane people, such as the Gift Shop buyer. (But this adorable child in his arms young in years but no child, apparently, in her knowledge of man's vulnerability) was certainly no fool. She was remarkably well poised.

What was going on in her mind as they danced? he wondered.

FEBRUARY'S GREAT

Includes Susan B. Anthony, "the most hated, the most revered woman in U. S. history. Men laughed at other suffragettes, but not at Miss Anthony. She was earnest, logical, courageous. In Park Sequoia (Cal.) stands a giant tree, 200 ft. high, 3,000 years old, dedicated to Susan B. Anthony. Better still the homage of millions of women promoted legally from chattels to citizens. You now Vote—but did you when Susan B. took the floor? Her voice has been heard in Salem.

Ann was thinking: "He's the most fascinating man I've ever known—but do I know him at all? He likes me now—perhaps more than likes—but whenever this divine music ends, he'll be quite cool and distant. It's maddening!"

She gave herself up to the beautiful unreality that the waltz engendered.

Closer—he was holding her closer—so that the white orchids on her right shoulder touched his chin—that strong chin with the cleft in it.

"If I could only make him fall in love with me!" she told herself, feeling the magnetic current flowing between them, wrapping them round so that, as they swayed together in complete union, they seemed utterly isolated from the other dancers.

Was it only sex-attraction? The glamor of his high position in the store as compared with her own humble one?

Was it his undeniably handsome looks?

But in her short life, she had known plenty of good-looking men. Was it his usually aloof attitude? That sense of withdrawal about him?

Oh! that gorgeous music might never end!

It did, however. There was an encore. After it was over, Paul said brusquely: "Let's sit out somewhere and have a cigaret, shall we?"

Nothing could have pleased Ann better.
